

TWELVE SCHOOLS WORK HARD

FOR SUCCESS OF FIRST FAIR

Youngsters all Proved Highly Enthusiastic and Many Entries Were Such as to Surprise The Older Folk.

The first annual school's fair was a success beyond expectation. In several respects ahead of the Agricultural Fair, there being a greater exhibit of grain and grasses and vegetables while in the baking and other domestic classes the youngsters surely held their own.

Many of the exhibits were of course, along different lines to the ones of the "big flowers" such as mounted grasses, flowers, noxious weeds, butterflies, beetles, etc. The exhibits in penmanship, drawing and wood craft drew a great deal of attention and it is an inspiration in its self to realize that as they roam over the fields of our prairies our boys and girls are keeping their minds on the alert, and especially for the recording of every new variety in their natural history studies. Older folk are apt to never realize the wonders we have around us until we see the collections all so cleverly mounted and displayed.

The boys who went in for the wood craft showed painstaking care and knowledge of the why and the wherefore of aeroplanes, wind mills, bird houses, etc. In the sewing, fancy work, knitting and spinning the little girls of the Wainwright and District Schools' Fair seemed forever the gloomy prophecy that girls these days would never learn to go to work so well as Grandmothers did.

The canning of fruits, vegetables, chicken, etc., and vegetables dried struck the thought forcibly home that the boys and girls have had a busy summer and that the fact that their efforts were to be on exhibition on their Fair day could not for long have been forgotten.

The exhibits of cookies, cakes, pies, candy, etc., were marvelous and especially because the boys were keen competitors with the girls in this class as well as many others, and the fortitude with which the boys withstood a generous amount of teasing conclusively pointed to the probability of the maidens of this vicinity having to look to their laurels if their husbands are to be drawn by any of the old bean strings.

There were excellent vegetables of every variety and one would have been suddenly inspired to start a sugar refinery, so many beets were amongst the collection. J. W. Howe, of the Vermilion Agricultural school, was delighted with the exhibits in vegetables, grains and grasses, and he was the Judge and said that this was really one of the finest he had seen.

G. K. McKenzie, also of the Vermilion Agricultural School, Judge of Livestock and Poultry, said that in these classes the exhibits were well up to the average. There were not as many exhibits as at some Fairs but that the quality was here and exceptionally so.

The poultry were of good types and of good quality, but only a few were in proper show pens, which hampered the judging as well as spoiled the exhibition of the birds for the spectators. Several of the groups of three were in small boxes not large enough for one bird. Mr. McKenzie recommended the improvement in this respect for another year. He said that any handy boy should be able to make nice pens, in which to exhibit the poultry. They should be of wire on one side and plenty large enough and high enough to allow the birds freedom to move around and show their height. The Executive and teachers deserve the highest appreciation of the parents and the community as a whole for their untiring efforts in carrying out and making all arrangements.

The Judges' commented very highly upon the enthusiasm apparent both on the part of the children and adults and predicted big things for coming years.

During the afternoon the following sports were pulled off with the results as noted:—

CROSSING THE BAR

JOHN YOUNG

We regret to announce that despite all that medical skill could do for Mr. J. H. Young, of Ribstone, who accidentally shot himself last week passed away on Saturday at the hospital in Edmonton. The body was brought to the family home on Monday, from whence internment took place yesterday.

WILL THE IMPERIAL DRILL HERE FOR OIL

We understand that the Imperial Oil Co. who for a long while have cast long eyes on this district for drilling sites, have now made arrangements to make a start in the Fabian district. Rumor has that they have purchased a tree-acre plot on the N. E. 7-45-7-4 from Mr. G. Madder, and that a carload of timbers and drilling machinery is on the way Saturday at the hospital in Edmonton. Their representative was here yesterday and is making arrangements for boarding of the employees. Looks like business!

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Jas. Bracegirdle takes this means of thanking all for their kindness and sympathy in his recent accident and also those who made his "benefit dance" such a success.

Battle River U.F.A. Gets New President

W. G. Farquharson, of Provost, has been elected chairman of the U. F. A. political association for the Battle River constituency, succeeding Hon. R. G. Reid, minister of municipalities and health, who resigned following his elevation to cabinet rank. Mr. Farquharson was formerly first vice-president of the association. Norman Tucker, one of the directors, has been elected first vice-president.

WAINWRIGHT FALL FAIR IS REAL UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS

The Titeness of the old adage "L'homme propose, Dieu dispose" was clearly shown in the number of exhibits at the fall fair on Wednesday last for had not the wet weather of the preceding two weeks set back the threshing season, numbers of our farmer friends would have been well to the fore in the list of entries. Albeit the high standard of previous fairs was well maintained, if not surpassed, and the judges in some instances had to exercise all their skill in dispose of the awards.

The most disappointing classes were those for grain and poultry, these being but very poorly filled although fairly well entered for.

A rather large Provincial School of Agriculture supplied four of the judges in the persons of Miss A. P. Scott and Messrs J. W. Howe, G. K. McKenzie and J. J. McLaughlin, and these were augmented by Messdames A. E. Keith and T. H. Sault of Chauvin and a rather large feature of the proceedings was the fact that the entrants were allowed to break the rule governing the staging of their exhibits this being until nearly noon and which cut very short the time at the disposal of the general public for viewing the various displays at the close of the judging, which was not completed until four o'clock.

During the afternoon the well-known concert aggregation "The Martin Children" of Edmonton entertained a large number on a capital improvised stage and again in the evening they repeated their offerings.

The flour-carrying competition at the evening show interested a great number, and when Mr. T. Hill carried the 200-lb sack a distance of 68 feet 9-in many were sure that he had won it as well as earned it, but when Drayman Blise (Mr. William Blinn, Blise) tottled off some 122 feet with "the darned awkward thing" most of the Strong Men backed down with their aspirations.

Several others tried the lift but it "wouldn't stay put."

The Willis piano, which was kindly loaned to the directors by Mr. J. C. McLeod, was very efficiently handled during the concert items by Miss E. Martin, and the singing, dancing and specialty numbers of her five sisters and brother were all well worthy of the rounds of applause they received.

Before the close, Miss Scott and Mr. McKenzie (judges) gave short addresses on the points to be aimed at and attained in preparing exhibits for fairs, both speakers being intently listened to.

But Perfection is no trifle.
I make glasses to fit your eyes so you will see better, further and with more comfort and make them so that they will look neat and becoming to your face and features. It is not egotistical to place these qualifications before you for I do not rely on them alone but am still reading, reviewing keeping in touch with every progressive step in my profession and I spend four hours daily in that way. I am not infallible and do not claim that I never make mistakes, for, being only human, I do make mistakes; but you will find me always willing and anxious to rectify my errors.

I EXAMINE EYES—This work is done with the utmost care and when I give orders to have Glasses made, they MUST BE MADE RIGHT. The makers consider me a crank and I am a crank, for I demand the very best work possible for my patrons. I have made enemies, many of them, who take delight in belittling me both professionally and personally. ## Henry's 75 Ton Engine!

(Cincinnati Times-Star)
Henry Ford's scheme to make a new model 75-ton locomotive da the work of 200-ton monster, will hurt nobody's feelings. You cannot expect the old-timer master mechanic, engine designer or engineer to believe in any such motive power marvel until he sees it. The Yankee railroad man is a very practical man. He naturally thinks he knows something about his intricate game. And also naturally he lifts his eyebrows when Henry, but six months a railroader, comes along and claims that at one fell swoop he can produce a sort of glorified steam fiver, which will do the same work that the railroad's latest 20-ton machine will do, and do it cheaper, quicker and better.

The old-timer somewhat represents the implication that he has been building huge giants simply because they are impressive. As a matter of fact, the real transportation expert has added each succeeding unit of weight to car or engine most grudgingly. He always has felt pain, whenever he has contemplated the rising curve of damage which these smoking monsters have done to his road-bed and bridges. So he will welcome anything which Henry will do to make life happier both in cab and caboose, and in the operating offices where cost sheets are figured. The general public waits hopefully. It is willing to admit that a man who can demonstrate so much on four wheels as Henry has demonstrated, probably can show something new on ten or twelve.

(It would be decidedly interesting if someone could get the irrepressible Mr Ford to back up to the two-wheel class and give us Binders in Prairie Canada at $75 apiece, plus the hurdle of $33.33 at the border.—Ed.)

May Return To Monarchy

Ludendorff Certain German People In Favor of Change

That Germany will return to a monarchy and will return to that through the free will of the German people, was the prediction made at Munich recently by Field Marshal Von Ludendorff, when asked for his views on the present conflict between the North and Bavaria, where the great military strategist, though a Prussian, has made his home.

"Not today, nor tomorrow, nor the day after, and not by force, but by free will of the people," declared Ludendorff. Discussing the Berlin alarm of the Berlin Government over what he called the growth of monarchial sentiment in Germany, Ludendorff insisted that the present struggle was not one between Republicanism and Monarchism, as the Berlin Government would have its own people and the world believe, but a struggle between "a Socialist Republic, which is not democratic, and a monarchy which would be democratic."

Fruit Is Good Food

Supplies Many Elements Essential to Pure Blood.

In many families fruit is commonly thought of as a food accessory, and are prized for their pleasant flavor or for supposed hygienic reasons rather than for their food value. Yet a study of available figures shows that they constitute a by no means unimportant part of the diet, since they supply on the basis of recent statistics, 4.4 per cent of the total food, and 37 per cent of the carbohydrates (that is, sugar and starches) of the average American diet. Fruits should not be looked upon as food accessories, but should be considered a fairly economical source of nutritive material. It must be remembered, too, that the use of fruits, fresh and preserved, often makes palatable an otherwise rather tasteless meal. For many scientific experiments it has been found that fruits are reasonably cheap sources of energy in the diet, and are well suited, on the ground of economy, for combination in reasonable quantity with cheap protein foods to furnish a well balanced ration.

Eat fruits for their delicious taste, their refreshing, thirst-quenching juices, their organic salts and mineral compounds. These fast supply sodium, calcium, phosphorus and other elements so essential to pure blood and sound living. From a dietetic standpoint, the most important function of fruits is that of furnishing mineral salts and organic acids to the body. The postulant is considered especially important. Fruits are generally laxative in effect. Apples, prunes, peaches and berries are particularly effective in this respect, especially if taken between meals or at the beginning of a meal.

Corns cause much suffering, but Hallways Corn Remover offers the speedy, sure and satisfactory relief.

Peace and Work

Bulgaria's Guide

King Boris Believes Motto Will Bring Prosperity to People.

King Boris of Bulgaria declares that "peace and work" is the motto of his reign, and is the promise of the future prosperity of his country.

"Neighboring peoples are storm-tossed," he said. "Echoes of revolution and discontent sound distantly across our frontiers and reach us in our wheat fields where our peasant absorbed in their tasks, turn a deaf ear to preachings of war and adventure. They are tired of war. I have seen war myself and learned to hate it."

"We ask for a small army, but it is only to protect the country from the disorders which outsiders are seeking to introduce. With such brilliant prospects ahead of Balkan pacification and development it is a mystery to us how people can say, as they do abroad, that we are at odds with our neighbors, are about to attack Greece or are organizing bands to provoke strife beyond our borders."

King Boris, who speaks English fluently, is an enthusiastic naturalist and has an extensive knowledge of American fauna and flora. In the royal parks at greenhouses he has gathered an extensive collection of American plants and flowers.

Tactfulness.

"The trouble lasted two weeks before I tried Cuticura. When I had used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment for about two weeks I was healed." Signed: Reginald Dudgeon, R. F. D. 2, Fort Kent, Maine.

Prince Wants To Go Boar Hunting

King George Opposes Plan On Account of Danger.

England's future King is just at present engaged in a controversy with his parents and also with the members of the government as to whether or not he is to be allowed to take part while in India in the contest for the Kadir Cup. This is the principal annual sporting event of King George's vast Oriental empire and may be described as the true ribbon of the sporting world. Picking is the favorite sport of Europeans in India and excites a keener degree of interest than any other. The Indian wild boar is no mean opponent and his pursuit on horseback is fraught with considerable danger unless the huntsman's heart is in the right place and his hand and eye quick and true.

The Indian boar stands anywhere from 36 to 44 inches at his shoulders and has a charging weight of approximately 300 pounds. He is adorned with a pair of long, razor-like tusks with which he can disembowel a man or a horse in the twinkling of an eye. He can gallop clear away from a horse for about half a mile before he turns and begins to tire. He will then show fight and will charge headlong at the nearest horseman. It is the receiving of this savage charge accurately on the spear-point that is the acme of the boar hunter's skill. If he misses the boar will certainly damage the horse and probably send the latter as well as the rider sprawling. A good boar is the bravest animal afoot and likewise the most relentless.

Fruits That Ripen Slowly.

Human beings are like plants. It is not always the tree which grows and fruits the quickest that gives the best crop in the end. They continue to endure days and nights of unspeakable agony when a remedy of high standing has not yet been tried.

Woman Welds Cables

Working On Suspension Bridge Near Kingston, N.Y.

Folks who have been gazing curiously at work upon a suspension bridge near Kingston, N.Y., 300 feet above Rodout Creek were amazed to learn that a blonde worker in overalls who had been welding cables is a widow, 31 years old, with two children, who is earning $20 a day. She is Mrs. Catherine Nelson, of Jersey City. When her husband died she tried working as a stewardess on an ocean liner, but found the pay too small, and she got a job in a machine shop. When the bridge contractors asked a company in Jersey City for its best welder she was sent to Kingston. She says she is never afraid or dizzy, never had an accident, and never rejected a task because of the danger. She hopes to take her children home to Denmark for Christmas, then return and don overalls again.

The Milk Maid.

A young man went on one occasion to call at a country farm house to make inquiries after his sweetheart, who had charge of the dairy. Her master opened the door, and her lover asked him timidly:

"How is the milkmaid?"

"But the farmer angrily replied, as he slammed the door on the stranger's face: "Our milk isn't made; it's got from the cow."

Three Hundred Great Years

Undreamed of Advancement Since British Empire Was Founded.

A period of three hundred years—a span which is short enough in the history of any age in which we are not directly concerned—is all that separates us from the beginning of the colonial policy upon which the mighty British Empire was founded, but these three centuries have seen new worlds discovered, new nations arise, and an advancement in civilization beyond the dreams of those who lived at their beginning.

The impressive ceremonies at Annapolis Royal possess far greater interest and significance than would attach to a merely local observance, for they celebrate an event which have had no small part in moulding the history of this continent, and their effects have been felt over an even greater part of the surface of the globe.—The St. John Telegraph.

A POPULAR TONIC

One That Enriches the Blood and Strengthens the Nerves.

Proper food, fresh air and a good tonic will keep most people in good health. Hurried meals, indoor confinement in badly ventilated rooms and lack of exercise tend to weaken the system. In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a popular tonic. They contain no habit-forming drugs, and always become a beneficial effect through enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves. For growing girls, who become thin and pale, for tired women and for old people who fail in strength, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are ideal tonic. Their beneficial effects in anemic conditions is shown by the case of Miss Lucy A. Stevens, of N.S., who says: "I had a spring I was in very poor health, and completely run down. I had severe headaches, the least exertion would cause me to faint, and at times I had fainting spells. This went on for some months, and although I was taking medicine, I seemed to be growing weaker, and the least exertion would leave me worn out. Then on the advice of a friend, I changed the treatment to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had great cause to be thankful that I did so, as they have made a wonderful improvement in my condition. I can now work without fatigue, go upstairs without becoming breathless, and have gained in weight. I think these pills are an ideal medicine in cases like mine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box of six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An Eccentric Piano In London.

The orchestra of freak instruments which plays on the Italian Roof Garden of the Criterion Restaurant, London, has been reinforced by a wildly eccentric piano, which is twelve feet long, and has to be played with hammer. This is the closest description which can give of the Marimba, the modern successor of the barbaric gourd piano of the native natives of Peru and Chile. Its keyboard is constructed of a series of rosewood metal resonators. The player smites these with his hammer as vigorously as though he were breaking stones, and they yield notes deep and sonorous as those of a cathedral organ. The specimen on the Criterion Roof Garden is the only one in England.

Record For Calgary Horses

Awarded Many Prizes at Spokane Inter-State Fair.

A remarkable record was made at the Spokane Inter-State Fair by the ten horses sent from Calgary to compete in the horse show at that exhibition. The Calgary string took in all thirty-nine prizes, including ten first, eleven seconds, eleven thirds and seven fourths, and these were all in twenty-four classes in which the competition was very keen, there being other outside entries from Vancouver, Tacoma and Seattle. In addition to these prizes one championship and a reserve championship comes to Calgary.

The cup for the best lady rider was also won by a seventeenth-year-old Calgary girl, Miss Ben Dewdney, against very strong competition. Calgary has gained a widespread reputation at the Pacific coast and in the Western States for its fine horses and splendid riders.

At Afulat the great clusters with which Herod adorned his birthplace have been identified and excavated, and the exploration of Tiberias and the area in the vicinity of the synagogue of Capernaum has had equally interesting results. ## A Becoming Frock For The Dark-Eyed Girl

By Marie Belmont.

This lovely frock is made of a fine quality of burnt orange velvet. The bodice is designed with a wide spread flitch which is prettily draped about the shoulders. This is edged with ecru lace. The small puffed sleeves are trimmed in like manner. The skirt shows a continuation of the flitch effect, for it is designed with an irregular overskirt. This is caught up at the side with a spray of black-eyed susans. The underskirt is also adorned with the ecru lace. A belt of dark brown velvet ribbon defines the waistline and clustered at one side of the frock is another spray of the black-centered flowers.

Needs Vigilance Committee

To Track Auto Drivers Who Make Highways Unsafe.

It has been suggested as a remedy, that every owner and driver of a car should be required to take out a certificate of competency. But such a step would not meet the situation, as the trouble is not lack of ability on the part of the offenders to handle a car. The trouble is an utter disregard of all rules of the road, and an insane desire to speed. Driving an automobile in a sane manner is a very simple matter. The number of women and young girls and boys who drive cars is evidence of the fact. On the other hand professional drivers who hold 100 per cent. certificates of proficiency are often the worst breakers of the rules on the road and the cause of the most accidents. Only a very small per cent. of accidents are due to inability to drive.

The Ottawa Motor Association has now a membership of over one thousand. This association can do a splendid public service by devoting its energies vigorously to tracking down and helping to punish those drivers who make the streets and highways unsafe.

What seems to be required is a vigilance committee of twelve hundred people were killed and one hundred thousand injured by automobiles. As the use of autos grows, the rate of death and injury will jump upward unless a halt is called.—Ottawa Journal.

THE SIMPLEX FARM RECORD

We have always regarded book-keepers and chartered accountants with deep awe. People who can speak lightly and easily of "trial balances," "budgets" and the like command our undying respect.

We have a little way of our own of keeping track of what money comes in and what we spend it on, but a sight of it would probably drive a chartered accountant to drink if he did not die of shock.

From the foregoing it will be gathered that our knowledge of the science of accounts is chiefly conspicuous by its absence.

Farmers have always had our keenest sympathy when we have heard them urged to get a "simple set of books and keep accounts."

That sympathy has deepened when we have struggled to understand some of the record and account books which have been got out specially for farmers.

At the same time we fully realize that it was most essential that records of farm business should be kept.

W. E. S. Walker, a Manitoba boy, born at Hamiota, and who himself farmed for some years at High Bluff, seems to have solved the problem. At least he has got out a farm record book that we know we could keep straight ourselves. "Simplex" is a good name; it is just one book and not a large one at that. It is thoroughly indexed. Suppose you sell a horse, you look at the index and see "horses sold" page 31. Turn to the page and there is the place for date, number, sold, cash received, notes received, dates when notes due, rate of interest, total price and the name of the person to whom sold. It does not take two minutes to record the whole transaction.

You sell wheat. Just look on page 11 and there is the place for date, gross bushels, dockage, net bushels, No. elevator check, price per bushel, grade and to whom sold. So on through the list of everything which can be sold off the farm. It is the same with things traded off the farm and with things consumed on the farm, both by the family and the stock. There is the same provision for things purchased. Fuel oil for tractor, for example, turn to page 44 and there in a second can be recorded the date, brand of oil, quantity, price and from whom purchased. On page 57 there is place for recording the date at which seeding of every farm crop was begun and the date when seeding finished, the date when cutting finished and the yield per acre. Page 58 carried space for memorandum of weather conditions and also for memorandum of work done on the land. This last is something which few farmers keep, and yet how valuable. Possibly one of the best features is that having kept the record carefully all year the farmer has exactly the information he needs to make up his income tax returns without any trouble.

Not alone will this record furnish data for income tax returns, but regularly and properly kept it should be of value in securing a loan when necessary, as a banker could run over everything in it in less than half-an-hour and know a great deal more about the standing of the man asking for the loan.

The first few pages of the record contain a lot of useful information farmers want and often find difficulty in locating just when they need it; such as: How to measure hay in bulk; contents of an ordinary wagon box; sizes of bins required; ordinary weights and measures; how to test seed grain; breeding data; and many other things of everyday value.

We think that Mr. Walker has performed a real service to farmer in getting out this book which is based on his own experience in keeping records on western farm. No doubt some improvements could be made but if every farmer kept a book of this character up to date he would know a whole lot more about the standing of his business than he does at present.—Miss Cora Hind in the Manitoba Weekly Free Press.

A CHAPTER OF CONFLAGRATIONS

No less than three fires have been reported during the week.

The first of these occurred on Wednesday last at the home of Mr. J. Worthington, when the wood box full of kindling at the back of the kitchen stove became ignited although no one was in the house at the time. The flames were soon noticed and extinguished with a couple of pails of water. No damage was done.

The second fire which was of much more consequence took place on Friday last, when Mr. Dave Sutherland lost his home on N. E. 24-44-5W4. Practically all that was saved from the home was a sewing machine and one or two little things, and although there was a little insurance on the building, none was carried on the contents which were a total loss. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland in their loss.

On Monday last also a small fire started mysteriously in a trunkful of junk which was placed near the barn in the yard of the Lee household, on Second avenue. This was a noticed almost as soon as started and quickly put out, but such incipient blazes are all too forcible examples of the need of a "fire prevention week" as described elsewhere.

More Heat at Less Cost

The direct heating principle of the Findlay Pipeless Furnace eliminates all loss of heat and floods every corner of every room with warm, moist air at a saving of 35% to 50% on fuel.

Findlay Pipeless heat—balmy and healthfully moist—is automatically supplied through one register.

There are no pipes or costly plumbing fixtures. A hole cut in the first floor for the register face; the furnace in place in the cellar, the smoke pipe connected up and your Findlay Pipeless is ready to heat the house from top to bottom. It does not heat the cellar which may, therefore, be used for storage of fruits, vegetables, etc.

Without any difficulty you can install Findlay's Pipeless Furnace yourself without expert aid. The job is easily done in a day, so you can light the fire a few hours after the furnace is delivered at your door, and from that time on, every corner of your home will be warm, healthy and comfortable, no matter what the outside temperature.

Will you let us send you the full facts about this economical heating system? The attached coupon, filled in as indicated, will bring you all particulars by return mail. Mail it today.

Economical Grain Hauling

J. G. Yoerger, Esq.,
Ford Dealer. Humbolt, Sask.

Dear Sir—
I have now operated the Ford Truck I purchased from you in 1918 two seasons and am pleased to give you some information regarding its performance. I live 20 miles from town, and made three trips per day, carrying on an average of 55 bushels of wheat per load. I kept track of the gas and oil consumed, and found that a tank of gas or 8 gallons made three round trips, thus giving an average of 15 miles per gallon. It required about 3 pints of cylinder oil for the round trips, or 120 miles. I found it far more economical to operate the truck than to use horses. It might be interesting for you to know that I hauled 8000 bushels of grain in 1918 and 5,000 in 1919.

Yours truly,
Mike Hoffner.

INFORM THE EDITOR

One of the most difficult of the editor's jobs is to get facts about births, marriages and deaths. People seem to think he ought to know these things by intuition. If not that, the birth, marriage or death is of such importance in the immediate family that it is presumed the editor will be informed by some wireless or just grow in to the information. Then, when the paper comes out, and no mention is made of the event, the editor is blamed for not running a good newspaper or not getting all the news. Remember there are a good many people in the district. If the editor knew each of them by name besides their family history and the chief events in the lives of every individual, he wouldn't be an editor. He'd be a demi-god resting his feet on a cloud and sipping ambrosia instead of inhabiting a broken-down office chair and wondering where the money for the next white paper bill is coming from. The life of the average newspaper man is a gay one. Gathering news is second nature to him. Like picking his teeth with the office pen and cussing the office towel. Just the same there is a limit to his omniscience. Last week we thought of eight hundred and forty nine thousand three hundred and sixty four things of importance, besides a couple of hundred thousand small items unworthy of mention. And it was a slow week. We're anxious for news for the paper, and it won't put you out much to

The Mistake Of Hoarding

Canada, like all countries of the first class, has journals and publications whose business it is to reflect and promote the special and particular interests of certain classes and institutions. There are trade journals devoted to the interests of almost every conceivable line; financial papers dealing with banking, insurance, loan, trust and mortgage corporations; papers promoting the welfare of the vast and all-important industry of agriculture and stock raising; labor publications championing the cause and recording the activities of organized labor; purely political monthlies maintained to advance the cause of the party or parties; and a host of other journals, magazines and newspapers maintained by churches and philanthropic and social service organizations; and straight out and out newspapers.

All these many publications are legitimate, praiseworthy and play an important and proper part in the life of a country like Canada providing they are straightforward and honest. The paper in which this article appears is, however, first and foremost a home paper devoted to recording the news, activities and up-to-date opinions of the people in the local community in which it circulates. It does not seek to serve any particular group, but the whole people of its own community and thereby help to advance the welfare of all. It does not profess to attempt to right the wrongs of the world nor to solve the gigantic problems of the present day, except in so far as the encouragement of sound, commonsense action by the ordinary everyday citizen helps in these directions. It is for the reason that so many of the articles appearing in this paper are addressed to the individual occupying a small and perhaps inconspicuous place in the national life, but nevertheless one of the really great and influential factors making for national stability and progress—in fact, the basic, the greatest factor of all.

In common with all countries today, Canada is suffering, although not to the same extent as most lands, from a business depression resulting in tight money, a slackening in industry, high freight rates and high prices generally for commodities and a serious lack of employment for thousands willing and anxious to work. Governments, great corporations, captains of finance and industry, all have a tremendous responsibility during such a time as the present. Everybody recognizes this and the average citizen probably expects too much of them and demands that the impossible be done in an effort to right matters. But what is not so well recognized and appreciated is that each individual citizen in a small way can do much to improve conditions, and if all individuals, or a large majority of them, discharged their small duties the effect in the aggregate would be greater than anything Governments or corporations can do, and would make action possible by them which they are now powerless to take.

Take, for example, one present adverse condition—tight money. Hundreds of millions are required for national purposes and scores of millions more for financing the purchase and marketing of this year's crops, not to speak of the enormous sums necessary to keep the wheels of industry revolving in the present depressed state of business, in order to prevent an actual shutdown in many directions. Can the average man do anything to relieve the money market? Of course he can, if he only will, but fear, selfishness and ignorance so frequently prevent him from doing so.

It is well, therefore, that every man should appreciate certain simple truths which are real economic facts. The business of the world is carried on on credit. In order that credit may be established and it is necessary that there be something substantial back of it. For this reason Governments and all banks and financial institutions maintain reserves in gold or liquid securities. It is a well-known fact that a dollar deposited in a Bank serves as a source of credit for many times that amount. It is stated on reputable authority that a dollar deposited in a Bank provided anywhere from five to ten dollars of credit for the carrying on of business. Yet there are many people who, when they have a dollar or two, prefer to keep money in varying amounts in the house from year's end to year's end. They not only run the risk of loss through theft or fire, and lose the interest which their money on deposit would earn for them, but through the mistake of hoarding they are depriving the community of the incalculable benefits of the credit which their money placed in a recognized Bank would provide for the benefit of all, themselves included, because in our complex twentieth century civilization, no man can live to himself alone and general adverse conditions affect him as well as all others.

A writer in an Ohio farm journal estimates that at least $5,000,000 in that State alone is hoarded away in homes which, if placed on deposit in Banks, would serve as a source of credit for from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 and go a long way towards relieving the present critical situation. This writer points out that, aside from the protection afforded against loss by theft or fire, the biggest reason why all surplus money should find its way into the Banks as promptly as possible is that the Banks are the credit factories, and the raw material of the credit which they manufacture is hard cash, and it is hard cash which the country needs at the present time. Moral: Don't hoard your money but put it to work for yourself, your community and your country by placing it on deposit.

Valuable Specimens Found in Alberta

Rare Dinosaur Estimated to be 3,000,000 Years Old

Discovery of a rare and valuable specimen of a carnivorous dinosaur, which became extinct, according to conservative estimates, 3,000,000 years ago was recently made by Dr. J. A. Allan, a member of the University of Alberta vertebrate paleontological field party, operating on Sand Creek, eight miles northeast of Patricia, Alta.

Much difficulty is being experienced in collecting the specimen, with a great many tons of rock to be removed. Only about half of the skeleton has been unearthed up to the present time. Work is being continued. The tail has not been located as yet. The skull is in a fine state of preservation and one lower jaw has been removed from the rocks. It is 34 inches long, armed with teeth about two or three inches in height. Many bones of the body have been removed and packed for shipment to the university. Dynamite has been used to remove the rock which was over the skeleton and the large sections have had to be hauled to the prairie level, some 200 feet up over a narrow trail.

The carnivorous dinosaur was a formidable beast, about 25 feet long and was a-biped. It ran or walked upon the long powerful hind legs, while the fore legs were very short.

Manitoba Butter Shipments Increase. Fifty-four carloads of creamery butter have been shipped out of Manitoba since Jan. 1. This is a slight increase over last year's figures, L. A. Gibson, Manitoba dairy commissioner, announces. Most of the shipments were for Eastern Canadian cities. "So far as we can judge the amount of creamery butter manufactured in Manitoba this year will approximate 8,000,000 pounds," Mr. Gibson said.

Attempt to Kill Korean Governor. An attempt upon the life of Admiral Baron Minors Saito, the Governor of Korea, was made by a Korean, who threw a bomb in the rooms of the Government Buildings where Governor Saito was assuming his duties after his return from the country. The Governor was not injured.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 25.
REVIEW.

Two methods may profitably be employed in the review of the lessons of the Quarter. First, a biographical sketch of the Apostle Paul, such as his birth, home training, education, conversion, teaching and missionary work. Second, the leading teachings of the lessons, which may be made prominent by summarizing the facts of each lesson and stating the most vital teaching thereof. The first method can be used in reviewing the lessons in all departments and grades, and can be easily adapted by my teacher. The second method will be preferred by many in the senior and adult classes.

The following is given by way of suggestion:

Lesson 1. Paul was born at Tarsus, of Hebrew parentage. Being brought up in a pious home, he was thoroughly imbued with the spirit of devotion to the Scriptures. He was educated at Jerusalem under the tutelage of Gamaliel. The chief test book was the Bible. In addition to the religious training he was taught a trade which came in very useful later, enabling him to support himself while preaching the gospel.

Lesson 2. In Paul's training as a Pharisee, he was taught to love his own nation, to love God, and to be zealous toward God, that is, to have a passion for God and His work.

Lesson 3. Paul's burning hatred of Jesus incited him to endeavor to stamp out the Nazarene heresy. While on the way to Damascus with authority to arrest and imprison the believers, men and women, he was stricken with blindness and fell to the earth, and Jesus spoke to him from heaven, saying, "Why persecutest thou me?" In response to the heavenly instruction he went to the Damascus where Ananias baptised him, and he received his sight and was filled with the Holy Spirit.

Lesson 4. Paul straightway preached Christ in the synagogue. Like everyone who is really converted he began to tell of the newly found Savior. After a lengthy sojourn in Arabia he visited Jerusalem where he was befriended by Barnabas when suspected by the disciples.

Lesson 5. When the religious awakening at Antioch had come to the attention of the Jerusalem church, Barnabas was sent to inspect it, and seeing help was needed he brought Paul from Tarsus to be his helper.

Lesson 6. After teaching a year at Antioch, the Spirit moved the church to send forth Barnabas and Paul to evangelize the heathen. The church sent their best men.

Lesson 7. As Paul and Barnabas were preaching at Iconium, an attempt was made to worship them as gods. Their efforts were frustrated by the fact of the Jerusalem church. Paul was stoned, showing that satanic worship can soon be turned into satanic hate.

Lesson 8. Paul's preaching the grace of God to the heathen brought on a controversy in the church at Antioch. The question in dispute was: "Shall Gentiles be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation?" The decision was in favor of Paul, and so Paul and Barnabas were free to begin their second missionary journey.

Lesson 9. The Spirit forbade Paul to tarry longer in the province of Asia preaching the Gospel, and by a vision of a man from Macedonia pleading for help, he was called into Europe.

Lesson 10. The casting out of demon from a young woman resulted in hounding Paul and Silas in jail. They were miraculously delivered and the jailer was converted.

Lesson 11. Being driven out of Thessalonica and Berea, Paul went to Athens where he preached the gospel on Mars' Hill. The result of his preaching here was that some mocked, some procrastinated and some believed.

Lesson 12. Paul in this lesson sets forth the grand principles which should govern the believer's life, the sum and substance of which is: "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

The Electric Welder

British Machine Makes It Possible to Weld Large Plates

The process of spot welding, as it is called, has been employed extensively for small work such as fixing handles to pots, but until the recent invention of a British machine it was not applied to large articles such as the ventilating coils of steamships. The new machine consists of pressing two pieces of metal together by electric terminal through which a current is passed, thus melting the metal together, at the spot between the terminals. In the new machine the metal is supported on a long rigid arm carried by a set of electric terminals and the other set is pressed on the metal from above. Very large sheets of metal can thus be handled with great facility and expedition.

Be fair to your local merchants. Ask to see his goods and compare prices before sending your money to the mail order houses. You will find that it pays.

China Will Refuse Japan's Proposals

Claim That Award of Shantung Was Illegal

China will refuse to entertain Japan's proposals relative to settlement of the Shantung controversy, it is declared by a person in the confidence of the administration. She will base her action on the ground that the award was illegal and that Japan has no right to the privileges in Shantung which were conferred by concession upon Germany and which were turned over to Japan at the peace conference.

A CORDIAL INVITATION TO DISEASE

This is an apt description of Constipation. It's an unpleasant condition to begin with—but it's dangerous because it leads to indigestion, fills the system with poisons, brings on nausea. You don't need a positive, you don't want to weaken the system by a harsh gripping medicine which tones up the liver, restores the bowels to perfect action, and positively end constipation. You'll feel tip top after regaining your normal health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills for young and old—a real family medicine, 25c all dealers or The Carthage Co., Montreal.

Venezuelan bakers will use Canadian flour when the price drops to that quoted on American flour is stated in a communication issued by the Dominion Department of Trade and Commerce, and based upon a report from H. ### WHEN BABY IS ILL

When the baby is ill, when he cries a great deal and no amount of attention or petting makes him happy, Baby's Own Tablets should be given him without delay.

The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus direct constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and soothe the throat. Continuity to them. Mrs. Desire Therberge, Trois Pistols, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with my use of Baby's Own Tablets. I have found them of great benefit to my baby when he was suffering from constipation and I can recommend them to all mothers." ### Burn the Future.

Every good citizen should know what forests mean to Canada, to his province, and to his very home; and that every fire that burns in the forests is a detriment to the progress of civilization. Every boy and girl should have instilled into their minds the untold damage that may result from carelessness with fire in the woods. In destroying the forests we are not only damaging the present, but are literally burning up the future.

New Planes For London-Paris Service

Will Carry Passengers From Centre Of Cities.

Experiments will shortly be made with a view of organizing a Paris-London air service with amphibious machines which will be able to carry passengers from the centre of one city to the centre of the other.

Convenient points will be chosen in the Thames and the Seine where the machines will alight on the river. The machines will be so built that they can also, if necessary, land at aerodromes and other convenient points for the carrying of freight.

The advantage of this means of transportation will be to shorten considerably the time now necessary in order to travel by air. The aerodromes are far from the centre of the cities and much time is lost by automobile transport to starting points and from landing places. It will also be possible to reduce the price of the journey owing to this suppression of its automobile section.

Capitalizing The Home

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH
An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

In a small town in the Middle West when the husband and father built a town home for the erstwhile family he decided it should be the best in town. The rooms were large. During the war, when every woman was sewing for the Red Cross, Mrs. Turner accommodated as many as one hundred when she rolled back the doors and made one large room of the dining room and drawing room.

Then the day came when a lawyer's committee, when engaging the parlour, asked Mrs. Turner if she could provide some light refreshments for a stated sum. This was her beginning.

She charged fifty cents apiece for home-made cake, some dainty sandwiches and a drink such as chocolate with whipped cream.

The first club to avail itself of Mrs. Turner's large room was a ladies' card club. There were fifty women. Mrs. Turner arranged the parlour, asked Mrs. Turner if she could provide some light refreshments for a stated sum. This was her beginning.

When the students of the graduating class in the local High School wanted to have a dance it took Mrs. Turner but a moment to take the rugs from the hardwood floor and re-felt that these students were in excellent surroundings. Later a dancing teacher engaged the large room for her morning classes.

When a man's club quarters Mrs. Turner arranged ash trays and other little conveniences, and during the winter she served to one club of the best Welsh rarebit they said they ever tasted.

She watched every opportunity for a chance to do good. For instance, many girls who worked in town lived an hour's journey out in the country. When they wished to stay in town to do the theatre many brought their pretty frocks into town in the morning. Mrs. Turner decided to cast her net. Mrs. Turner's home to make their evening toilet before going out.

So, if you are a woman suddenly thrown upon your own resources, try in every way to capitalize your home or your home-making abilities. You may decide to cast your lot with the great army of folks who are specially trained for work "outside."

With all the world's scientific progress, health conditions today are neither better nor worse than they were 3,000 years ago, according to Dr. Robert Jaures, who has just published the results of an examination of numerous Egyptian mummies that were buried along the Nile.

Not only were there then existent diseases that are now attributed to microbes, but also there were malformations, Potts disease, rickets and flat feet, as well as corns and bunions. In some of the bodies, Dr. Jaures found distinct evidence of tubercular lesions in lungs, while microscopic examinations of hardened tissues revealed cirrhosis of the liver, abscesses and gall stones.

Not the least interesting discovery by Dr. Jaures was the fact that the ancient Egyptians were more susceptible than the people of today, as was indicated by the fact that out of a thousand mummies examined, not a single case of fracture of the foot or leg was found.

Well Known Farmer Declares He Only Had Bare Fighting Chance

"When I began taking Tanlac it looked like I only had a bare fighting chance for life, but it put me on my feet feeling as fine as any man could want to feel," said William Padfield, well-known farmer living at Kipling, Sask.

"I was so emaciated that I only weighed 120 pounds when I started taking Tanlac, and was so weak I was almost in a state of collapse. I could not get any good out of the little I ate, as my stomach was in such an awful condition that even the lightest food soured and caused me misery."

"Never in my life have I seen anyone to equal the way I have gained in weight. I now weigh 185 pounds, have my strength back, and I can honestly say that I never felt better in my life or had more energy. Tanlac certainly does the work."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

They were recruited by Dominion agencies in the east and all arrangements, including transport, were organized and managed by the government. ## Oh, Money! Money!

—BY—
ELEANOR H. PORTER

Printed by Special Arrangement with The Allen, Toronto, Ont.

I don't think Mellicent's real heart is affected in the least—she's only eighteen, remember—but her pride is. And her mother—Mrs. Jane—is the ugliest angry as well as mortified. She says Mellicent is every bit as good as those Pennocks, and that the woman who would let a paltry thing like money stand in the way of her son's affections is a pretty small specimen. For her part, she never did have any use for rich folks, anyway, and she is proud and glad that she's poor! I'm afraid Mrs. Jane was very angry when she said that. However, so much for her—and she may change her opinion one of these days.

My private suspicion is that young Pennock is already repentant, and is pulling hard at his mother's leaden strings; for I was with Mellicent the other day when we met the lad here to face on the street. Mellicent smiled and nodded faintly, but Pennock—

—he turned all colors of the rainbow, with terror, pleading, apology, and assumed indifference all chasing each other across his face. Dear, dear, but he was a sight!

There is, too, another feature in the case. It seems that a new family by the name of Gaylord have come to town and opened up the old Gaylord mansion. Gaylord is a son of old Peter Gaylord, and is a millionaire. They are making quite a splash in the way of balls and invited servants and motor cars, and the town is agog with it all. There are young people in the family, and especially a daughter, Miss Pearl, whom, report says, the Pennocks have selected as being a suitable mate for Carl. At all events the Pennock and the Gaylords have struck up a furious friendship, and the young people of both families are in the forefront of innumerable social affairs—in most of which Mellicent is sure to be invited.

So now you have it—the whole story. And next month comes to Mellicent's father one of those "sand dollars." Do you wonder I say the plot thickens?

As for myself—you should see me! I eat whatever I like. (The man who says health is a biscuit to me now gets knocked down—and I've got the strength to do it, too.) I've gained twenty pounds, and I'm having the time of my life. I've even enjoyed being a genealogist—a little. I've about exhausted the resources of Hilberton, and have been to make a run to the neighboring towns. I can even spend an afternoon in an old cemetery copying dates from gravestones, and not entirely lose my appetite for dinner—I mean, supper. I was very busy yesterday myself that I was really quite a genealogist when, the other day, I met the real thing. I was hunting for a man had fourteen thousand four hundred and seventy-two dates at his tongue's end, and he said that he would do it for me. He knows the name of every Blake (he was a Blake) back to the year one, how many children they had (and they had some), and when they died, and when they all died, and why. I met him one morning in a cemetery. I was hunting for a certain stone and I asked him a question. He said: "It was like setting a match to one of those Fourth-of-July flower-pot sky-rockets affairs. That question was the match that set him going, and thereafter he was a gushing geyser of names and dates. I never heard anything like it. He began at the Blaisdells, and went almost at once to the Blakes—there were a lot of them near us. In five minutes he had me dumb with sheer stupefaction. In ten minutes he had made a century run, and by noon he had got to the Crusades. We went through the Dark Ages very appropriately, waiting in an open tomb for a thunderstorm to pass. We had got to the year one when I had to leave to drive back to Hilberton. I've invited him to come to see Father Duff. I thought I'd like to have him meet. He knows a lot about the Duffs—a Blake married one, "way back somewhere. I'd like to hear him and Father Duff talk—or, rather, I'd like to hear him try to talk to Father Duff. Did I ever write you Father Duff's opinion of genealogists? I believe I did.

I'm not seeing so much of Father Duff these days. Now that it's grown a little cooler, he spends most of his time in his favorite chair before the cookstove in the kitchen.

Love, what a letter this is! It should be shipped by freight and read in sections. But I wanted you to know how things are here. You can appreciate it the more—when you come.

You're not forgetting, of course, that it's on the first day of November that Mr. Stanley G. Fulton's envelope of instructions is to be opened.

As ever yours,
John Smith.

CHAPTER IX.

"Dear Cousin Stanley."

It was very early in November that Mr. Smith, coming home one afternoon, became instantly aware that something very extraordinary had happened.

In the living-room were gathered Mr. Frank Blaisdell, his wife, Jane, and their daughter, Mellicent. Mellicent's cheeks were pink, and her eyes more star-like than ever. Mrs. Jane's cheeks, too, were pink. Her eyes were excited, but incredulous.

"Mr. Frank was still in his white work-coat, which he wore behind the counter, but which he never wore upstairs in his home. He held an open letter in his hand.

"It was an ecstatic cry from Mellicent that came first to Mr. Smith's ears.

"Oh, Mr. Smith, Mr. Smith, you can't guess what's happened! You couldn't guess in a million years!"

"No," said Mr. Smith, "I hope." Mr. Smith was looking almost as happily excited as Mellicent herself.

"Nice little letter," interposed her husband before her. "Why, Mr. Smith, we are going to have a hundred thousand—"

"Mellicent! I wouldn't talk of it," interposed her mother sharply. "But, mother, it's no secret. It can't be kept secret!"

"Of course not—if it's true. But it's a matter of fact. No man in his senses would do such a thing."

"If—ah—what?" stammered Mr. Smith, looking suddenly a little less happy.

"Leave a hundred thousand dollars apiece to three distant relations—never saw."

"But he was our cousin—you said he was our cousin," interposed Mellicent, "and when he died—"

"The letter did not say he had died," corrected her mother. "He just hasn't been heard from. But he will be heard from—and then where will our hundred thousand dollars be?"

"But the lawyer's coming to give it to me," said Mellicent, "and then—"

Then abruptly he turned to Mr. Smith. "Here, read this, please, and tell me what you see—or, if anybody else has."

Mr. Smith took the letter. A close study of it showed him that the letter-hand carried the name of a Chicago law firm. The letter did not say he had died, but it said that Mr. Stanley G. Fulton, the Chicago millionaire.

Six months ago Mr. Fulton left this city on what was reported to be a somewhat extended exploring tour. He was last seen at his departure he transferred to me as trustee, certain securities worth about $200,000. I was instructed to open an envelope, entitled "Terms of Trust," and instructed me to open such envelope in six months from the date of his departure. He had not returned—and thereupon to dispose of the securities according to the terms of the trust. I will add that he also left me a second sealed envelope entitled "Last Will and Testament," but instructed me not to open such envelope until two years from the date written thereon.

The period of six months has now expired. I have opened the envelope entitled "Terms of Trust," and find that the trust is to consist of certain securities into cash with the exception of one share of the net proceeds to his kinsman, Frank Blaisdell; one-third to his kinswoman, Mrs. B. Blaisdell, all of Hilberton.

I shall, of course, discharge my duty as trustee under this instrument with all possible promptness. Some of the securities have already been converted into cash, and within a few days the cash will be ready to pay over the cash in the form of certified checks; and I shall ask you at that time to be so good as to sign a receipt for your share. Meanwhile this letter is to apprise you of my good fortune and to offer you my congratulations.

Very truly yours,
Edward D. Norton.

"Oh, h!" breathed Mellicent. "Well, what do you think of it?" demanded Mr. Frank Blaisdell, his arms akimbo.

"Why, it's fine, of course. I congratulate you," cried Mr. Smith, handing back the letter.

"Then it's all straight, you think?" "Most assuredly!"

"Je-ho-sha-phat!" exploded the man. "But he'll come back—you see if he don't!" Mrs. Jane's voice was still positive.

"What if he does? You'll still have your hundred thousand," smiled Mr. Smith.

"Of course not! I doubt if he could, if he wanted to."

"And we're going to have a whole hundred thousand dollars' worth of inheritance tax, perhaps."

"What's that? What do you mean?" demanded Mrs. Jane. "You mean we've got to pay because we've got that money?"

"Why, yes, I suppose so. Isn't there an inheritance tax in this State?"

"How much does it cost?" Mrs. Jane's lips were at their most economical pucker. "Do we have to pay a great deal? Isn't there any way to save doing that?"

"No, there isn't," put in her husband crisply. "And I guess we can pay the inheritance tax with a hundred thousand to pay it out of. We're going to spend some of this money, Jane."

The telephone bell in the hall jangled its peremptory summons, and Mr. Frank answered it. In a minute he returned, a very excited on his face.

"It's Hattie. She's crazy, of course. They're coming right over."

"Oh, yes! And they've got it, too, haven't they?" remembered Mellicent. "And Aunt Flora, and the other women suddenly, a growing dismay in her eyes. Why, he didn't—he didn't leave a cent to Aunt Maggie!" she cried.

"Gosh! that's so. Say, now, that's too bad!" There was genuine concern in Frank Blaisdell's voice.

"But why?" almost wailed Mellicent. Her mother sighed sympathetically. "Poor Maggie! How she is left out—always!"

"But we can give her some of ours, mother—we can give her some of ours," urged the girl.

"It isn't ours to give—yet," remarked her mother, a bit coldly.

"But mother, you will do it," implored Mellicent. "You've already said you would, if you had it to give."

"And I say it again, Mellicent. I shall see to it, for you, you may be sure—I'll have the money to relieve her. But—"

She stopped abruptly at the sound of an excited voice coming from the kitchen. Miss Flora, evidently coming in through the kitchen, was hurrying toward them.

"Jane—Mellicent—where are you? Isn't anybody here? Mercy me!" she panted, as she reached the room.

"Did you see anything like it in all your life?—You had one, didn't you?" she asked, her eyes flashing at her in her brother's hand. "But 'it isn't true, of course!'"

Miss Flora wore no head-covering. She wore one glove (wrong side out), and was carrying the other one. Her dress, covered by the noise of the street, was unevenly fastened, showing the topmost button without in justification.

"Mr. Smith says it's true," triumphed Mellicent.

"How do you know? Who told him 'it was true'?" demanded Miss Flora.

"About accusing was the look in her eyes that Mr. Smith actually blinched a little. He grew visibly confused.

May Move Livestock To North Alberta

Plans Have Been Placed Before Banking Institutions.

Plans for transferring some of the surplus live stock from the south to the north, where a large quantity of feed is available, have been placed before the heads of some of the banking institutions in Alberta by Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture.

Mr. Hoadley proposed that the banking institutions through their various branches arrange to extend credit to farmers in the north desiring to purchase more cattle where the surplus live stock is available.

The letter did not say he had died, but it said that Mr. Stanley G. Fulton, the Chicago millionaire.

Canada's Oil Fields

Circle of Those Concerned Is Constantly Broadening.

Dr. T. O. Bosworth, who located the claim on which the oil strike was made last year below Fort Norman, has arrived in New York from England. He states that he is representing several British real men who are branching out into oil, and is planning an extensive trip through Western Canada. The circle of those who are concerned themselves with our oil possibilities is constantly broadening.

At the end of a meeting of the Hudson's Bay Company, the chairman stated that provisional arrangements have been made with the Imperial Oil Company to exploit certain of the company's lands, and that the agreement had recently been renewed for a further three months.

Negotiations, he added, have been entered into with a firm of world-wide reputation in the oil industry for their co-operation with your company in the exploration of some of our lands for oil. —Edmonton Journal.

Foch Warns Against Germany

Tells Veterans France Cannot Yet Sleep Soundly.

Marshal Foch in a recent speech to the Veterans at Melun, said: "Always be on guard. We are the vanquished who are not yet dead. I ask you not to let them out of your sight. Be assured that they are always alive and have not abandoned their idea of revenge."

"They will only respect us as long as we are strong. I ask you to absorb the idea that France is unable to sleep soundly without risking a terrible awakening."

Tank Is British Invention

Was One of Most Important in History of War.

The tank is a British invention. "In the Allied armies," says the Daily Mail (London Year Book for 1919), "the British invention of the tank has been recognized in 1916 as one of the most important of the whole history of war, and tanks of various patterns were built and adopted by the French and American armies, as well as by the British. A special Tank Corps for the use of tanks was formed in the British army, and a system of tactics worked out. The forms of tanks were used—a large, heavy type, and a much smaller and lighter pattern which could move faster and outrun any infantry and, indeed, most cavalry where the conditions were reasonably favorable. The tank of the large class was similar to the battle ship in naval war; the tank of the smaller class resembled the destroyer."

With these valuable machines a great economy of infantry could be effected, and thousands of valuable lives saved. —Lieut.-Col. J. E. C. Fuller, who was Chief General Staff Officer of the British Tank Corps from 1916 to August, 1918, and is the greatest authority on tanks, has published a work on "Tanks in the Great War" (1920).

Took Swim in Mid-Ocean

Crew of Neith Took Dip Thousand Miles From Land.

The little Neith, the cutter officially rated at 21.7 tons, in which Sydney Houghton, assisted by an amateur crew of three friends, Messrs. Bell, de Wolfe and Willard, sailed from Halifax, Nova Scotia, lay at her berth at Burnham-on-Crouch, Essex, with no scars to show for her buffeting by Atlantic rollers.

"The most remarkable incident of the trip," Mr. de Wolfe said to a London Mail reporter, "was the crew of the Neith, on the fifth day out from Newfoundland the Neith was hoisted to and we had a swim in mid-Atlantic, a thousand miles from land."

"It was then, looking down on her from the crest of a 20-foot wave that I realized for the first time what a tiny craft she is."

"Once we ran into a 50-mile-an-hour gale, but the Neith made nothing of riding through that. That night, when the sea was pounding on the foredeck, I went forward to see what sort of weather Sambo (the negro cook) was making."

"I found him on his knees, with everything loose in his gallery rattling around him and towels flying round his ears to drown the noise. 'Lard,' he prayed, 'if Yoh's a-gwine to take me, take me quick!'"

Will Help Farmers To Market Potatoes

Co-operation Sought By Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

The co-operation of the Provincial Department of Agriculture in marketing potatoes is being suggested by the market committee of the Saskatchewan department, which proposes that farmers in Saskatchewan who have a carload or more of potatoes for sale should notify the market commission.

The potato crop proved a failure over a wide area of Eastern Canada this season and with the object of developing the eastern market for Saskatchewan potatoes the market board is getting in touch with the larger produce dealers in Eastern Canada.

When writing to the market commission, farmers are asked to give information concerning the variety and color of potatoes they have for sale, whether from pure or certified seed, graded or field-run, sacked or loose, and, if sacked, what weight and quantity is for sale.

Prospective shippers are asked to note that graded potatoes command a premium on the market. If a grader is not available, all small potatoes should be removed by hand picking. All potatoes should be in clean sacks holding 50 lbs.

The department will not buy or sell potatoes nor accept any responsibility for failure of buyer or shipper to measure up to the requirements of the market, but by ascertaining who have potatoes for sale and where they may be sold, valuable service can be rendered by the department in getting the interested parties together.

38,400 Automobiles in Manitoba. Thirty-eight thousand, four hundred automobile licenses have been issued by the Manitoba Government this year. Real Value For Money. George Howlette, of London, bought a suit of clothes when he was married. Nothing unusual about that except that he is still wearing it—and he's 88 years old and has been married 65 years.

Foch Warns Against Germany

Tells Veterans France Cannot Yet Sleep Soundly.

Marshal Foch in a recent speech to the Veterans at Melun, said: "Always be on guard. We are the vanquished who are not yet dead. I ask you not to let them out of your sight. Be assured that they are always alive and have not abandoned their idea of revenge."

"They will only respect us as long as we are strong. I ask you to absorb the idea that France is unable to sleep soundly without risking a terrible awakening."

Tank Is British Invention

Was One of Most Important in History of War.

The tank is a British invention. "In the Allied armies," says the Daily Mail (London Year Book for 1919), "the British invention of the tank has been recognized in 1916 as one of the most important of the whole history of war, and tanks of various patterns were built and adopted by the French and American armies, as well as by the British. A special Tank Corps for the use of tanks was formed in the British army, and a system of tactics worked out. The forms of tanks were used—a large, heavy type, and a much smaller and lighter pattern which could move faster and outrun any infantry and, indeed, most cavalry where the conditions were reasonably favorable. The tank of the large class was similar to the battle ship in naval war; the tank of the smaller class resembled the destroyer."

With these valuable machines a great economy of infantry could be effected, and thousands of valuable lives saved. —Lieut.-Col. J. E. C. Fuller, who was Chief General Staff Officer of the British Tank Corps from 1916 to August, 1918, and is the greatest authority on tanks, has published a work on "Tanks in the Great War" (1920).

Crew of Neith Took Dip Thousand Miles From Land.

The little Neith, the cutter officially rated at 21.7 tons, in which Sydney Houghton, assisted by an amateur crew of three friends, Messrs. Bell, de Wolfe and Willard, sailed from Halifax, Nova Scotia, lay at her berth at Burnham-on-Crouch, Essex, with no scars to show for her buffeting by Atlantic rollers.

"The most remarkable incident of the trip," Mr. de Wolfe said to a London Mail reporter, "was the crew of the Neith, on the fifth day out from Newfoundland the Neith was hoisted to and we had a swim in mid-Atlantic, a thousand miles from land."

"It was then, looking down on her from the crest of a 20-foot wave that I realized for the first time what a tiny craft she is."

"Once we ran into a 50-mile-an-hour gale, but the Neith made nothing of riding through that. That night, when the sea was pounding on the foredeck, I went forward to see what sort of weather Sambo (the negro cook) was making."

"I found him on his knees, with everything loose in his gallery rattling around him and towels flying round his ears to drown the noise. 'Lard,' he prayed, 'if Yoh's a-gwine to take me, take me quick!'"

Hapsburg Estates Go To U. S. Syndicate

Estimates Place Value at Two Hundred Million Dollars.

Negotiations were completed in Paris whereby the vast estates of Archduke Frederick of Austria and his son, Archduke Albrecht—estimated to be worth more than $200,000,000—were taken over by a United States syndicate which includes Charles H. Sabine, J. Leonard Replogle, Frank A. Munsey, Thomas J. Felder and other prominent United States business men.

The transaction concerns the vast land and industrial holdings of the Hapsburgs, distributed throughout Austria, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Poland, Roumania and Italy. They include the great steel works and mines in Czechoslovakia and Poland. The estate comprises some 1,000,000 acres of agricultural and forest lands, scattered over several countries.

One of the men in the party remarked: "You're a bright sort of a fellow, and it's easy to see that your people came from Ireland."

"No, sir, we are very badly mistaken," replied Pat.

"What?" said the man. "Didn't they come from Ireland?"

"No, sir," replied Pat, "they're here yet."
